

Can your employees hear each other loud and clear without yelling and breaking social distancing health and safety rules in your business?

We understand that these are unique times, especially for companies in manufacturing. While the COVID-19 has introduced challenges for many of our customers, we recognize that maintaining your production is critical for both your company and customers.

In light of the recent events, our customers tell us that they need to continue to communicate with visitors, management and employees in their operations and directly on the shop floor, but are now unable to because of the distance they must maintain in their operations under current conditions. Our 1-Way and 2-Way communication systems completely remove this obstacle and, in all cases, dramatically improve both the ability to communicate and the quality of the information exchanged.

We are fully stocked and prepared to service all your requirements in your industrial/manufacturing facility. We offer patented and comfortable systems specifically designed for all in-plant communication requirements. Both our 1-Way and 2-Way Systems easily and professionally allow you to continue to thrive and actually improve your communication following appropriate current Social Distancing guidelines in your plants. Several examples of critical requirements that our customers have recently requested include:

- 1) Training systems-For new employees, new product lines, new machines
- 2) On-boarding and New Employee Orientation systems-For new or cross-training employees and other HR activities
- 3) Communication Radios for Staff Communication-Headsets/Ear-Speakers/Speaker Mics -For all departments including management and staff, maintenance, safety, engineering, etc.
- 4) GEMBA, Daily Walk-Throughs/Floor Meetings-allows communication between management and production staff for process improvement, efficiencies, comparison and benchmarking, etc.
- 5) Tours of all types-Customers, Executives/Management, User Groups-follow Social Distancing Guidelines while improving convenient group information communication regarding production, product information, and efficiency updates of your operation and processes.

Please let me know how I can assist you. Be sure to take advantage of our Sanitized Free Demo Kit Offer so that you and your team can easily explore all of the above opportunities to improve your operation. We even pay round-trip shipping. Contact me directly and mentioned you heard about us from Sandra Wood, Executive Director, CKCA. As we have for over 20 years,

Can your employees hear each other loud and clear without yelling and breaking social distancing health and safety rules in your business?
